APPLICATION

1. Senders listed to in § 2.17 of these Terms and Conditions can use the services provided by the Operator as long as they have their personal account in the Application and are not in arrears with any amounts due owed to the Operator. Prior to using the Services, the Sender has to accept the Terms and Conditions and to consent to the processing of its personal data to an extent required for the proper provision of the Services by the Operator; the foregoing is done while registering with the Application.
2. Dispatch is initiated directly on a personal account of the Sender in the Application or via external software/application using API to communicate with the Application – provided that the Client and the Operator signed a separate written agreement for a Postal Service or a Transport Service.
3. The Application allows for comprehensive management of shipments and the Sender's account. In order to dispatch a Parcel, the Sender shall:
 - a) Log in to the Application by providing its email address and password
 - b) Prepare a shipment and pay for it in accordance with § 6 of these Terms and Conditions
 - c) Generate and print a Label
 - d) Put the Label on the Parcel in a durable manner.
4. The Operator reserves the right to verify the declared quantities of Parcels sent against the actual number of Parcels handed over to the Operator for acceptance, both when accepting Parcels for dispatch as well as while sorting them. Should any inconsistency between the declared number of Parcels and their actual number handed over to the Operator be found, the Operator shall immediately notify the Sender of such a situation.
5. The Operator reserves the right to suspend the Sender's account in the Application if the Sender commits a gross breach of or continues to breach these Terms and Conditions or if the Sender delays in paying amounts due to the Operator for longer than 5 days.

§ 6. PAYMENT

1. Services are paid for via the Application or via other channel specified in a separate written agreement for a Postal Service or a Transport Service entered into with the Client.
2. A payment for a Service depends on the weight and dimensions of a Parcel as well as on additional services provided by the Operator or its Partner to the Sender. The Operator reserves the right to verify fees calculated for a Service provided. In particular, the Operator may verify the weight and dimensions of a Parcel. Inconsistency of such data with information provided by the Sender may result in a change in the price of the Service as per the Price List.
3. The weight of a Parcel includes also its packaging and necessary markings and labels (e.g. those informing about a fee collected or additional services provided).
4. Placing or failure to place a Label on a Postal Parcel (or failure to hand over a Parcel to the Operator) shall not exempt the Client from payment for a corresponding Postal Service as per the agreement for a Postal Service signed by the Client and the Operator.
5. For Business Clients, in the case of services provided by the Operator between the first and the last week day (a week-long settlement period), the Operator shall issue VAT invoices based on the number of Parcels shipped and at the prices specified in the Price List or in a separate written agreement for Postal Services or Transport Services entered into with the Client. If a VAT invoice for a given settlement period does not include services provided in that period, they will be included in a VAT invoice for the subsequent settlement period.
6. The Business Client has the right to make reservations over a VAT invoice issued by the Operator within 7 days of receiving the VAT invoice in question, though it does not exempt the Business Client from paying it in full and in time.
7. Filing a complaint shall not exempt the Business Client from the VAT invoice payment obligation. Possible damages awarded under a complaint shall be settled by the Operator based on a separate document.
8. A written agreement with a Business Client may provide for different settlement rules, particularly when it comes to settlement periods or making reservations over VAT invoices.

§ 7. LABEL VALIDITY

1. The Client may place a Label generated in the Application on a Postal Parcel in order to send it, but within up to 3 (three) months from its generation (Label validity period). After that period, the Operator may refuse to accept a Postal Parcel with such a Label or may return it to the Sender should it be found in the provision of a Postal Service that the Label validity period has been exceeded. In the case referred to in the previous sentence, the Client does not have the right to file claims for failure to provide or for improper provision of a Postal Service, or claims for reimbursement for the Postal Service in respect of the Postal Parcel marked with an invalid Label, subject to item 5 below, and excluding loss of, damage to, loss of contents of or destruction of the Postal Parcel marked with an invalid Label, which is supposed to be returned to the Sender pursuant to this clause.
2. Only one Label is generated for a single Postal Parcel. The Sender may not place more than one Label on a single Postal Parcel.
3. The Sender is obliged to place a Label only on a Postal Parcel, for which the Label was generated. The Operator shall not be held liable for mislabelling a Postal Parcel by the Sender with an invalid Label or a Label designated for another Postal Parcel, and any consequences of mislabelling the Postal Parcel shall be borne by the Sender.

4. The Client may invalidate a Label generated, which results in invalidating the order for a Postal Service placed in the Application, within the Label validity period and within 4 (four) days from the Label generation date. Once the Operator is handed over a Postal Parcel with such a Label, it may not be invalidated.
5. Upon Client's request, the Operator shall reimburse the Client for a Postal Service paid for in the Application if the Client effectively invalidated a Label, in compliance with item 4 above, or if such a Label became obsolete as per item 1 above unless the Operator accepted a Postal Parcel with the invalid Label or if the Operator did not return it as per item 1 above. Funds are reimbursed to the Client's bank account indicated in a request for refund within 30 days of receipt of the request referred to herein by the Operator. A claim for refund shall expire pursuant to the generally applicable laws and regulations.
6. If a request referred to in item 5 above was made within 4 days from the generation of a Label, the Operator shall refund the full fee for a Postal Service paid in the Application. Should a request referred to in item 5 above be made after 4 days, but prior to the lapse of 30 days from the generation of a Label, the Operator shall refund the fee paid for a Postal Service decreased by a fee for invalidating the Label amounting to 30% of the refund to be made. This clause applies exclusively to Business Clients.
7. The Operator will not accept a Postal Parcel with a Label which was not generated in the Application or which was not provided to the Operator by the Sender.

§ 8. DECLARING THE VALUE AND CONTENTS OF A PARCEL

1. Parcels accepted by the Operator as part of its Services are considered to be Parcels with a Declared Value. The Sender is obliged to declare the value of a Parcel and specify its contents.
2. The Sender declares the value and contents of a Parcel in the Application or in other manner specified in a separate written agreement for a Postal Service or a Transport Service.
3. The declared value of a Parcel dispatched by the Sender may not exceed its normal value and, upon Operator's request, it should be confirmed by relevant documents (e.g. an invoice, an account).
4. Prior to accepting a Parcel, the Operator may request the Sender to open it in order to verify whether the contents of the Parcel corresponds to the declarations of the Sender, whether it may be accepted for dispatch, whether the declared value of the Parcel corresponds to its actual value, as well as whether the declared value has been adequately secured.

§ 9. CERTIFIED PARCEL AND RETURN DELIVERY CONFIRMATION

1. The Operator may purchase a Certified Parcel service for an additional fee.
2. A confirmation of delivery of a Certified Parcel is provided to the Sender immediately after it has been dispatched. The delivery of a Certified Parcel may be confirmed also in the Mail Dispatch Register. A template for a Mail Dispatch Register constitutes Appendix No. 3.
3. If a Certified Parcel is returned to the Sender, the Operator may charge an additional fee for its return.
4. The Sender may also purchase an additional Return Delivery Confirmation service for a Certified Parcel, consisting in the Operator sending the Sender a Return Delivery Confirmation with a date of delivery of the Parcel and a signature of the person who collected the Parcel.

Terms and Conditions of Domestic and International Postal and Transport Services ŚWIAT PRZESYŁEK PIOTR KOCON

ADDRESSING A POSTAL PARCEL

1. The Client needs to specify the following on an envelope or packaging containing a Postal Parcel to be handed over to the Operator:
 - a) Name and last name or full name of the Sender and the Recipient
 - b) Address of the Sender and the Recipient consisting of city/town/village, street, building number, apartment number, and postal code.
2. Only a single person/entity or a group of individuals living together in the same apartment may be a Recipient.
3. A Postal Parcel that is not adequately marked with information allowing for the identification of the Recipient will not be accepted by the Operator for dispatch. However, should such a Postal Parcel be accepted by the Operator, it will be returned to the Sender with a note stating a reason for its return to the Sender. The Operator charges a fee for returning a Postal Parcel in accordance with the Price List.
4. A Postal Parcel shall also be returned to the Sender at its cost if the address provided on the Parcel is incorrect.
5. A Postal Parcel that cannot be returned to the Sender and delivered to the Recipient due to an incorrect address shall be deemed undeliverable and shall be directed to the Undeliverable Mail Storeroom.
6. If data referred to in item 1 above are provided on a Label as well, placing such a Label with correct information on a Postal Parcel shall result in fulfilling the obligation referred to herein, but it does not exclude the remainder of this clause.

DISPATCHING A POSTAL PARCEL

1. An agreement for a Postal Service is entered through the following:
 - a) Dispatching a Postal Parcel at a Distribution Centre or a Dispatch Centre of the Operator
 - b) Handing over a Postal Parcel to a Courier by the Sender.
2. Only Business Clients may enter into an agreement for a Postal Service in a manner referred to in item 1(b) above. In addition, an agreement is entered into in a way referred to in items 1(a) and 1(b) above upon registering a Sender's Postal Parcel with the computer system of the Operator when the Sender uses the Application referred to in § 2.3 of these Terms and Conditions, regardless of the moment of dispatching the Postal Parcel by the Sender at an Operator's Distribution Centre or Dispatch Centre or the moment of handing over the Postal Parcel to a Courier by the Sender.
3. In case of any doubts, accepting a Postal Parcel at a Distribution Centre, a Dispatch Centre or by a Courier shall mean dispatching it.

RIGHTS OF THE OPERATOR AND OBLIGATIONS OF THE SENDER

1. The Operator refuses to enter into an agreement for a Postal Service or a Transport Service, or may refuse to provide any of these Services if:

- a) The Sender fails to comply with the requirements for the provision of services set forth in the Postal Law (for a Postal Service) or the Transport Law (for a Transport Service), respectively, these Terms and Conditions, as well as in regulations issued on the basis thereof
 - b) The contents or packaging of a Parcel may result in a loss suffered by the Operator or a third party or in damage to other parcels. The Sender is at any times responsible for packing and packaging a Parcel safely and adequately to the contents of the Parcel; in particular, when packaging a Parcel, the Sender should take into account its contents, atmospheric conditions, and other circumstances that may affect the condition of the Parcel, even after its acceptance by the Operator, including circumstances which may arise in the transportation of the Parcel by the Operator

 - e) Separate provisions of law prohibit the acceptance and transport of a given Parcel
 - f) The Business Client with whom a relevant agreement has been entered into is in arrears with payments for Postal Services or Transport Services provided by the Operator

2. In addition, the Operator has the following rights:
 - a) The right to refuse to enter into an agreement for services if a Parcel does not comply with the requirements for entering into it defined by the Operator, and in particular when:
 - i. The Parcel contains items (including those whose transport is not allowed) prohibited under the applicable laws and regulations, including by the Postal Law or relevant regulations of the Universal Postal Union and the Transport Law; as well as items originating from crime, money, securities, valuables (including jewellery, antiques, artworks, identification signs, etc.), weapons, ammunition, and other waste explosives or flammable materials (including weapons within the meaning of Art. 4.1 of the Weapons and Ammunition Act of 21 May 1999 (Dz.U. of 2017, item 1839, as amended), excluding: noise guns, starter pistols, alarm guns and ammunition for them as long as they are not firearms within the meaning of the said act; as well as – provided that prior to dispatching the Parcel the Sender provides the Operator with documents required by the said act and complies with the remaining requirements for the services in question – hazardous items and substances within the meaning of separate regulations, chemical substances or their mixtures available on the market (e.g. designer

- ii. The Parcel is inadequately packaged so that it may open without interfering with the packaging, so that its contents can get lost or damaged or so that other parcels can get damaged while providing the Postal Service or the Transport Service; or when the dimensions and/or weight of the Postal Parcel exceeds the dimensions and/or weight defined in § 2.20 and § 2.27 of these Terms and Conditions, respectively
- b) Refrain from providing a Postal Service or a Transport Service after having signed a relevant agreement if the Parcel does not comply with the requirements defined in the agreement and in the Terms and Conditions.
3. Freight may be verified by the Operator at any time as of its dispatch until its delivery to the Recipient in order to verify whether it corresponds to the information provided in the Bill of Lading. Freight is verified in the presence of the Sender or, if it is impossible, in the presence of persons assigned by the Operator to verify it in compliance with the Transport Law.
4. Should the Operator refuse to enter into an agreement for a Postal Service and a Transport Service or withdraw from it for any of the reasons referred to in items 1 and 2 above, the Parcel accepted shall be returned to the Sender at its cost. The fee collected for the service provided is also to be refunded. If the Sender does not agree to cover the costs of sending back the Postal Parcel referred to in items 1 and 2 above, § 15.6–7 of these Terms and Conditions shall apply respectively.
5. If it is reasonably suspected that a Parcel does not comply with the requirements referred to in item 1 or 2 above, the Operator may verify – taking into consideration the relevant regulations – the contents of the Parcel at any stage of the provision of the service, also prior to its acceptance, by requesting the Sender to open it and subsequently to decide on accepting the Parcel, refusing to accept the Parcel or ceasing the provision of the service and returning the Parcel to the Sender at its cost as per the Price List. Should the provision of the service be ceased, the fee paid by the Sender will be set off against a fee payable to the Operator for returning the Parcel to the Sender. The Sender shall be held liable under the general rules and regulations for damage and losses caused by packing and packaging a Parcel inadequately or by unacceptable contents thereof.
6. The Sender is obliged to adequately pack and package a Parcel, especially a Postal Parcel, in a way securing its contents against any damage to the Parcel in transport as well as in a manner that does not endanger people used by the Operator to provide the service nor other parcels handled by the Operator. In particular, the packaging should be:
 - a) Properly sealed in a way preventing access to the contents of a Parcel
 - b) Durable enough for the weight and contents of a Parcel

5. In the situations provided for by the law or upon request of competent authorities of a country of transit, the Operator or its Partner may allow for the opening and inspection of an International Parcel without notifying that to the Sender or the Recipient. The Operator and its Partners delivering an International Parcel outside the territory of Poland reserve the right to x-ray said International Parcel. When dispatching an International Parcel, the Sender must be aware that said International Parcel may be x-rayed which may affect its condition and contents.
 6. Information on customs requirements ("Requirements for Customs Clearance") applicable to Parcels sent abroad is available at the Operator's website <http://swiatprzesylek.pl> as well as at Distribution Centres and Dispatch Centres of the Operator.
 7. The Operator reserves the right to introduce additional limitations at a month's notice (by publishing the limitations at the Operator's website: <http://swiatprzesylek.pl> as well as at Distribution Centres and Dispatch Centres of the Operator), which may result from the following:
 - a) Legal regulations of any country of transit of the International Parcel in question
 - b) Legal regulations of the country of delivery
 - c) Legal regulations arising from the type of service ordered.
 8. Dispatching certain articles may be subject to different rules of customs clearance which may extend the delivery time of an International Parcel.
 9. The Operator may be legally obliged to report an improperly declared or undeclared Parcel containing dangerous articles to competent local authorities if the Sender has dispatched such an International Parcel despite the prohibition. In such a situation, the Sender may be subject to a fee or other penalty imposed in accordance with the applicable laws and regulations.
 10. If there is reasonable doubt whether an International Parcel meets the requirements specified in the preceding items, the Operator reserves the right to verify its contents prior to acceptance, in compliance with the requirements arising from the applicable laws and regulations, in particular the Postal Law and the Transport Law. As a result of the foregoing, the Operator may return or refuse to accept such an International Parcel and, in exceptional and justified cases and in accordance with relevant regulations, may destroy its contents, provided that they pose a risk to people or other parcels.
 11. International Parcels may be subjected to inspections carried out by relevant authorities (e.g. customs and border protection officers) in accordance with the laws and regulations applicable in the countries of transit. Such inspections may involve opening an International Parcel and verifying its contents by competent authorities without prior notice to the Sender or the Recipient.
 12. The Sender must complete all customs, fiscal, and other procedures required for the items included in the International Parcel (fill out relevant documents, pay customs fees, taxes, etc.) in accordance with relevant regulations. The Operator shall not pay on behalf of the Sender any fees, customs-related or otherwise, for items included in an International Parcel, and if the Operator has been forced to pay the fees referred to in the preceding sentence, the Sender shall refund the expenses incurred without undue delay.
 13. The Sender acknowledges that International Parcels may be subjected to customs clearance in the destination country prior to their delivery to the Recipient. The Operator recommends the Sender to ensure that articles sent in International Parcels can be admitted to the country of delivery. An up-to-date list of articles prohibited as imports in individual countries is available at the Operator's website <http://swiatprzesylek.pl> as well as at Distribution Centres and Dispatch Centres of the Operator. If the Sender dispatches an International Parcel containing prohibited items listed herein or in the generally applicable laws and regulations, the Sender shall pay the fees incurred as a result of sending foreign goods to the Sender and returning them from the country which prohibits such goods as imports.
 14. The Sender is obliged to fill out and enclose the documentation necessary for completing the customs procedure. If an International Parcel is withheld by customs agencies or offices due to any errors, inaccuracies, or any other omissions in documentation, the Operator shall notify the Recipient and then the Sender of such a situation. If the Recipient / the Sender is obliged to provide accurate information or documentation under the local laws and regulations and the Recipient / the Sender neglects to fulfil this obligation without undue delay, the International Parcel may be deemed impossible to deliver. The Operator shall not be held liable for the impossibility to deliver an International Parcel due to the inaccuracy or incompleteness of documentation, i.e. due to the negligence of the Sender / the Recipient.
 16. When appropriate, upon Operator's request, the Sender residing/seated in the European Union may appoint the Operator, its Partner, or a delivery company as the Sender's direct representative, authorising them to prepare and submit relevant declarations (e.g. customs declarations, export declarations, etc.), and take all actions related thereto on the behalf, at the expense, and at the risk of the Sender.
 17. The Operator reserves the right to charge additional fees based on real costs of customs clearance or other services rendered in relation to the customs clearance of the Parcels.
 18. International Parcels which have not been collected from the customs office shall be deemed undeliverable within the meaning of the Postal Law. If the Recipient or any third person requested by the Operator to ensure the reimbursement of the costs of fees and taxes required for customs clearance of an International Parcel refuses to pay said costs, the Operator may notify the Sender of the situation by sending an adequate letter or an electronic message containing a scanned copy of such a letter to the email address provided. If the Sender refuses to confirm its intent to reimburse the Operator for the expenses incurred, the International Parcel shall be returned to the Sender, deposited in a storage facility or a bonded warehouse, or deemed undeliverable. In such an event, the Sender shall pay the return fee in accordance with the Price List and bear the costs of storing the International Parcel in a storage facility or a bonded warehouse.
 19. The Operator forewarns that International Parcels may be seized and withheld by competent institutions of the countries of transit (e.g. by customs offices, border protection offices or other public authorities) which may delay or even preclude the delivery of International Parcels. In such a situation, the Operator shall not be held liable if it was ready to render the Service involving the International Parcel but said Service was made impossible for reasons beyond the Operator's control.

DISPATCHING AN INTERNATIONAL PARCEL

1. Any International Parcel needs to bear legible addresses of the Sender and the Recipient (i.e. name and last name, street, town, postal code, and name of the destination country) provided in a durable manner in Polish and in English or French (names of countries in English and in French are available at the Operator's website <http://swiatprzesylek.pl> as well as at Distribution Centres, Undelivered Mail Centres, and Dispatch Centres of the Operator). Detailed information on the preparation of an International Parcel for dispatch is available at the Operator's website indicated above and in the Information Guide included in Appendix 2 hereof.
2. If possible, the Recipient's details provided on International Parcels should include not only the Recipient's address but also its phone and fax number. The Sender may also provide its or the Recipient's email address as a possible means of communication with the Operator.
3. The fee for an International Parcel shall be collected at the moment of its dispatch as per the applicable Price List.
4. International Parcels dispatched after 1.00 pm shall be deemed to be dispatched on the following day.
5. By dispatching an International Parcel, the Sender declares that the International Parcel does not contain any items which are unacceptable or prohibited hereunder or under the applicable laws and regulations.
6. The Operator recommends the Sender to dispatch an International Parcel upon verifying whether its contents are not prohibited under relevant regulations of the countries of transit (not applicable to Senders that are Consumers) and the country of delivery or under the list of articles prohibited as imports indicated in the regulations of the Universal Postal Union.
7. The Operator shall refuse to accept an International Parcel if the Sender declares that it contains any items which are unacceptable or prohibited hereunder or under the applicable laws and regulations.
8. The Operator may refuse to accept an International Parcel if the Sender refuses to sign the dispatch confirmation which includes a declaration that the Parcel does not contain any items which are unacceptable or prohibited hereunder or under the applicable laws and regulations.
9. International Parcels need to be properly and securely packed and packaged in a manner which allows for their opening without interfering with the packaging, prevents from their loss or any damage to its contents during transport, and precludes them from damaging other parcels. The foregoing refers to all types of transport. If the foregoing obligations are not fulfilled and any damage occurs, the Operator may claim adequate damages and postpone the service, provided that its continuance would risk damaging or destroying other parcels or causing another damage.
10. Items susceptible to damage during air transport (e.g. due to changes in temperature or air pressure) have to be properly secured by the Sender with the use of adequate packaging. When dispatching an International Parcel, the Sender has to consider all the circumstances, including atmospheric conditions, which may affect International Parcels and are beyond the control of the Operator, particularly if the International Parcel is to be transported via airmail or sea mail. The Operator does not provide air conditioning during transport. The Operator does not provide any service which would involve re-freezing or adding dry ice to International Parcels.
11. If the International Parcel is: refused by the Recipient, leaking, damaged or smelling (the instances hereinafter referred to jointly as: "Leakiness"), The International Parcel shall be returned to the Sender if possible. If an International Parcel is refused by the Recipient or the Sender or if an International Parcel cannot be returned due to Leakiness, the Operator shall charge to the Sender all relevant fees indicated in the Price List and the expenses incurred as a result of eliminating contamination or of the destruction of the International Parcel.

12. The Sender places all articles non-resistant or susceptible to changes in temperatures (including high or low temperatures), humidity, pressure, etc. in an International Parcel at its own risk and responsibility. The Operator reserves the right to transport International Parcels across various climatic zones, thus subjecting the Parcels to various atmospheric conditions, which may affect the contents and the condition of the Parcels.
13. If despite the limitations arising herefrom the Sender decides to dispatch electronic storage devices containing any confidential data (such as trade secrets, financial information, private information, or health information), it is recommended that the Sender create and hold on to a copy of such data prior to dispatching the Parcel. Furthermore, it is recommended that the Sender properly secure the information saved on electronic storage devices included in the Parcel against destruction, copying or loss. When rendering the Postal Service, The Operator does not guarantee protection against the loss of data and information saved on any kind of data storage devices, including optical and magnetic discs, memory cards, hard drives, CDs, DVDs, Blu-ray discs, 3D discs, etc. as the Parcels may be affected by atmospheric conditions, including changes in air pressure, temperature, humidity, climate, etc. whereof the Sender should be aware when dispatching an International Parcel. International Parcels must not contain classified information within the meaning of the Act of 5 August 2010 on the Protection of Classified Information (Dz.U. of 2016, item 1167, as amended).
14. The Operator does not offer any special handling of International Parcels bearing the "FRAGILE" label, visual labels such as the "UP" or "TO END UP" arrows, or other similar labels, including the equivalents of those labels expressed in other languages.

 - a) The Recipient's address is incomplete, illegible, incorrect or cannot be located
 - b) The International Parcel is supposed to be delivered to an address located outside the area of operation of the Operator or its Partners. The costs of re-sending are added to the original costs incurred by the Sender unless the International Parcel could not be delivered for reasons attributable to the Operator. The amount of customs fees and taxes shall be documented at the request of a Sender that is a Consumer. Further information on fees payable in a specific case is available upon request.
10. The Operator does not exclude the possibility of the Operator or the Partner attempting to deliver the International Parcel more than once, depending on the regulations applicable in the country of delivery and on the regulations of the Partner. The second delivery attempt may be subject to an additional fee indicated in the Price List of the Operator or the Partner.
11. Each time, a note of the attempted delivery indicating the time of the second attempt is left at the Recipient's address. After every unsuccessful delivery attempt, the International Parcel is left at the nearest office of the Partner operating in the Recipient's country and a note informing of the attempted delivery of the International Parcel is left with the Recipient.
